Hitler Is Scheduled To Make Address—May Affect Situation In Two Wars

NO FORECAST OF SPEECH IS HINTED

Von Ribbentrop Goes To Rome For Conference With Premier Mussolini

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 9.—With Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop en route to Rome, the stage was set today for some possibly momentous declaration of great consequence in Europe's two wars when Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler delivers a speech to the nation tomorrow.

To Be Received By Pope
The depth to which all of Europe's problems will be probed during the next few days was indicated by the expectation that Von Ribbentrop, while in Rome, will be received by Pope Pius.

The Fuehrer's envoy and the Pontiff are expected to canvass the whole field of German relations with the Holy See, including the Vatican's concordat with Poland.

Thus the scheduled reception was looked upon as tantamount to a rapprochement between Germany and the Vatican, whose relations have long been strained.

The Fuehrer will make an address, an official announcement said, as part of the annual heroes' day ceremonies in Berlin.

While there was no advance indication of the speech's content, it was expected to touch on the Russo-Finnish peace negotiations.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Tax rate reduction seems to be quite general in Lawrence county this year. Lawrence county rate was cut 1 1/2 mills, the city tax rate in New Castle one-half mill; tentative cut of one-half mill had been made in the city school tax, and Ellwood City has cut the city rate for that municipality 1 1/2 mills.

New Castle had a little touch of New York last night. A string of the "Sky-Top" taxicabs for use in the metropolis went through, headed toward Gotham. The cabs have glass windows in the top to give the passengers a view. New York buses, trucks, etc., go through the city frequently in their journey from the factory to service in New York.

Site of New Castle and Lawrence Co. has apparently been here a long time, it would appear from discovery of the tusk of a mammoth near Albion, in the Conneaut Lake region, during the week. According to experts the tusk is at least 20,000 years old.

One hundred and fifty wild ducks and geese which have been making a home on the Beaver river between Jenkins arch and the West Pittsburgh bridge have been fed with feed from the State Game commission, according to Felix Biega, deputy game protector. He warned persons today against molesting the wild fowl. He reported there are various species among the ducks and geese and believes they flew north when the cold spell hit the southland.

Building of a sanitary sewer in the Big Run will cost $115,644. The city's share will be $20,000. The sewer, and other improvements, such as cleaning, widening and fortifying the embankments is proposed as a flood alleviative for the South Side section.

The status of the streets to be improved is as follows:

Former Governor Earle Sails For Post In Bulgaria

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Happy to be back at work in the familiar field of diplomacy, former Gov. George H. Earle today entrained at Philadelphia for New York from where he sails at noon to take up his duties as new minister to Bulgaria.

Accompanied by his wife, three of their four sons and the family governess, Earle was to embark aboard the President Washington for some 12 days of travel before reaching the ancient Bulgarian capital of Sofia.

Says Justices Cannot Issue Marriage Licenses To Non-Residents Now

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa., March 9.—Non-residents seeking marriage licenses in Mercer county, hereafter, must make application at the clerk of courts office and not at offices of members of the minor judiciary.
Fred L. Hutchinson, county clerk of courts has sent letters to justices of the peace and aldermen reminding them it is illegal according to state law, to accept marriage license applications from non-residents.
Hutchinson said his office will not issue licenses on any such applications.
Mr. Hutchinson's reminder is likely to reduce the large number of out-of-town and out-of-state licenses issued by the county. But the marriage license bureau will be operating in strict accord with the law, a feature which Mr. Hutchinson believes to be of vital importance in administration of his duties, he said.
Before Mr. Hutchinson uncovered the law, which former clerks of courts, overlooked, and of which the minor judiciary apparently did not know, at least one-third of marriage licenses issued by the county were out of county residents on applications taken by justices of the peace and aldermen.

Mobilize More Men In Russia

(International News Service)
STOCKHOLM, March 9.—Mobilization of all men in northern Russia up to the age of 35 has been ordered by Soviet war commissar Klementi Voroshilov, the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen reported today in a dispatch from Estonia.

The reported order, said Tidningen, has led to a strong local belief in Russia that Britain and France are going to war with the Soviet union.

In connection with the mobilization decree, it was asserted, there have been mass arrests.

Deny U. S. Takes Peace-Maker Role

Possibility Of "Eleventh Hour" American Move Not Ruled Out However

MANY RUMORS SEEK TO CONNECT U. S.

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The possibility of some dramatic, "eleventh hour" American move to aid a Russo-Finnish peace was not ruled out by officials here today, although they repeatedly denied report after report from Europe that America already had intervened as a peace-maker.

After a 24 hour period in which almost every European capital had contributed reports or rumors that President Roosevelt's special envoy, undersecretary of state Sumner Welles, was seeking to, or had been asked to, aid in conciliation, a high ranking government official made these categorical statements.

U. S. Has Taken No Action

1. The United States has not—through Welles or otherwise—taken any part in the current negotiations to end the Russo-Finnish war.
2. No European nation has asked the United States to mediate between the two warring countries.

Privately, however, correspondents were warned not to leap to the conclusion that because nothing had been done that nothing would be done.

This advice was not taken to mean necessarily, that the White House had some definite peace move in view, observers gathered, the administration does not want to be taken in by rumors.

Senior High Dramatics Department Players In New Triumph On Friday

Production of smash hits by the Dramatics Department of the Senior High School is the rule, not the exception, but Friday evening's presentation "What a Life," seemed to stand out just a little above the many other outstanding plays of the past, and kept the audience which filled the high school auditorium to capacity in a state of continuous laughter, or apprehension as to the outcome of Henry Aldrich's efforts to extricate himself from the many perplexing school life situations in which he became involved as the hero, throughout the play.

The part of Aldrich was taken by William Reed, who filled that role to perfection, supported by an able cast. Audrey Eidenbaugh, who played opposite Reed in the lead role, was also excellent.

United States Not Asked To Mediate, Ambassador At Moscow Reports

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

COPENHAGEN, March 9.—To establish direct contact with a Soviet peace delegation, Finnish representatives already are en route to Riga, Latvia, according to well-authenticated information in Copenhagen today.

Authoritative quarters in Helsinki, however, stressed that the delegation is not going to Riga to "take orders," but to "get information."

EDITOR'S NOTE: A Reuter dispatch received in a roundabout way from Stockholm reported that "Pourparlers" in which Finnish delegates themselves were involved have already begun in Moscow. In this connection, the whereabouts of Dr. Juho Paasikivi, one of the original Stockholm negotiators, were not definitely known, while it was established that Foreign Minister V. A. Tanner had not gone to Berlin as previously reported.

At the same time wide speculation circulated in Scandinavian quarters as to the reason for the present trip to Berlin and Rome of Pehr Svinhufvud, former president of Finland.

One view is that Svinhufvud, after vainly trying to get the Germans to press the Soviets for milder peace conditions, now hopes to solicit aid from anti-Bolshevistic Italy.

CITY PREPARES TO PLANT TREES

Fifty Thousand Seedlings Are Ordered For Planting In Plots In City

City of New Castle through Councilman J. D. Alexander, director of grounds, has ordered 50,000 seedlings from a state bureau. The seedlings when received, will be planted on available vacant plots in the city. The seedlings will be Norway and White Spruce, Scotch and White pine. The city will pay $2.00 per thousand seedlings.

The project was urged by Judge W. Walter Braham, who appeared before city council, stating the benefits to be derived possibly a score or more years later. The jurist, a state forestry agent, Mayor Charles B. Mayne and councilmen recently visited various sections, saw the possibilities for future tree growth then council decided to secure the trees.

Democrats Fear Third Term Silence To Hurt Party's Chances In Fall

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill today expressed fear that President Roosevelt's silence on his 1940 plans may cost the party victory in the presidential election.

Spread of this fear was disclosed by Senator Frederick Van Nuys (D-Indiana), a third term foe. He said his colleagues feared the party would be divided over the third term issue as to endanger victory at the polls, whether the president finally decided to run again or to endorse another Democrat. He said: "From his own personal political standpoint, the president is playing a very astute game. From a broader standpoint, he is gradually but surely undermining Democratic prospects in the next campaign."

Should Disclose Attitude

Dramatic Slaying Takes Place In Dining Room Of Hotel Friday

WOMAN SURRENDERS AFTER CRIME OCCURS

(International News Service)
COLUMBIA, S. C., March 9.—Mrs. Massie Walker Burleson, 51, polished, artistic and widely-traveled former wife of U. S. Army Col. Richard C. Burleson, today was held for the dramatic slaying of the colonel's second wife.

Without uttering a word, and without removing her revolver from a black handbag from which she fired it, the divorced Mrs. Burleson walked into a hotel dining room yesterday and shot the colonel's 35-year-old second wife to death.

After shooting her victim in the back, she calmly walked around and fired again from the front, according to witnesses. Then she surrendered to the hotel management, and for more than four hours refused to answer questions. She was identified late last night.

The first Mrs. Burleson, member of a prominent Galveston, Texas, family, was married to the colonel 26 years ago. They were divorced in April, 1938, after he had charged that she threatened his life and retarded his progress in the army.

Col. Burleson is now an artillery section advisor for the Sixth Division of the U. S. Army, and was at nearby Camp Jackson at the time of the shooting. He is a nephew of the former Postmaster General Albert Sidney Burleson.

house. The president should disclose his personal ambitions and his plans at once.
The president meanwhile passed up another opportunity to reveal his 1940 plans in a radio talk last night to 400,000 farm leaders gathered at "Farmer's Day" dinners in 24 states. He also remained silent on the story, published here last Monday, which quoted him as opposing the nomination of Postmaster General James A. Farley for the vice presidency because of his Catholic religion.

The president never mentioned Farley once, although his postmaster general spoke a little later on the same program.
Farley however mentioned the president once, and then with a touch of praise. He said the president and the Democratic majority in congress had ignored partisan advantages in inaugurating the administration's farm relief program. And as usual Farley appealed to the farmers to support Democrats in the cities.

Rumors spread, through the capitol that Farley is going to press his presidential campaign, despite the White House frown, by entering the May 7 California and May 14 Ohio primaries. He already has entered the April 30 Massachusetts primary. Questioned about this, Farley replied:
"I'm not saying anything about anything concerning my future plans—at the moment."

It's an important occasion, and because it is New Castle's first industrial conference, the girls are doubly excited.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

READING TO CHILDREN

IT IS FAR better that you read to your baby than have your baby read to you. Many a child can learn to read at the age of four or five years, or earlier, but it is very doubtful if he should read so early. He has poor eye co-ordination at that age, so reading means excessive eye strain. Indeed, it might be better for the child not to begin reading until the age of seven or eight, if all his playmates did not read earlier. Also, the wide practice of encouraging first and second grade children to read many books is of doubtful value.

But some children are so bright they learn to read almost without any teaching, even before entering school. Often they tease their parents into naming the word they point to or spell out. Even with them the skillful father or mother might easily divert the interest of the child from wanting to read to wanting to be read to.

Easy Start
A mother writes that her daughter, three and a half years old, "has completed several pre-primers used in our rural schools. She recognizes the 250 words used in these books in any other reading material and also knows the script for most of these words. She counts objects to 14 and, with some mistakes, goes much farther. She has memorized the Lord's Prayer, Twenty-third Psalm and many Mother Goose rhymes."

"She begs to read and, for the privilege, performs tasks she does not like to do. We read for 15 or 20 minutes every day except on days when my work does not permit the use of my time in this manner. She mingles well now and her health is excellent."

"I enjoy your column and have followed your advice in regard to reading to young children. I found that after I began reading to our child she was learning much she could not repeat until she learned to talk well."

Don't Refuse Her

My personal reply to her:

"I am glad you have been reading to that little child. Though you will not refuse to let her read to you, I think you can divert her interest to listening as you read—harder material to her. No harm, I think, in her memorizing good selections, except if she might be over-tired to do so. You will be tempted to make her feel she should, and your relatives are almost sure to pay too great attention to her memorizing and reading accomplishments. Before you know it, you might have a conceited child who is out of favor with her playmates. Do try to let her grow up as a real child and not a prig. Encourage her to play out-of-doors with other children, and in creative play indoors with blocks, toys, crayons and other toys."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Please suggest a good appeal for a parent to make to a child not to cheat in written work at school?

A. The child will want to earn the grades he gets, be self-reliant, enjoy self-respect and not be a human parasite.

Q. If, when my child, three years old, is in a store with me, some adult begins to talk to him, he will slap that person. If he sees another strange child near him, he will slap the child.

A. Merely intercept him at the store, but train him at home not to hit anybody. Follow each offense with instant, effective physical pain. Train him at home in the unambiguous meaning of NO and your authority. Then you can use this simple symbol of restraint effectively at y from home, if necessary.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Dr. John W. Studenker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, advocates thrift:

"The schools have a definite and far-reaching obligation to teach the value of saving to young Americans."

LONDON—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy finds Americans determined to stay neutral:

"The American man and woman in the street have reached the conclusion that they can't understand this war and that the less the American nation gets involved in it, the better off we will be."

NEW YORK—Dr. Clement C. Williams, president of Lehman University foresees science and invention outmoding war:

"When nations learn that the ingenuity and efficiency will yield wealth and power more cheaply than does conquest, war may become an obsolete instrumentality in international policy."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Mayor F. H. La Guardia, outlines the qualities he believes the 1940 presidential candidate should have:

"Unless a candidate has a sound and progressive platform and unless the people are sure he will be governed by his platform promises, he won't win in 1940."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:00. Sun rises tomorrow 6:19.

If the stork leaves a March 12 baby on your doorstep next Tuesday, don't neglect to report the fact to the Hints and Dints man, and he'll make the little stranger a nice birthday gift. The day won't be a success for him unless there are quite a few of these birthday sharers.

In addition to having the Pymatuning dam to be thankful for, we should also appreciate the fact that our city is not underlain with old abandoned coal mine workings which collapse every now and then and wreck half the town.

An owner of a fine estate having a small lake within its boundaries was much annoyed one day to find a stranger fishing along the water's edge. "See here," he said, "I own this water and I stocked it with bass at my own expense. I won't have you fishing here."

"That's all right," replied the stranger calmly as he put some more bait on the hook. "I'm not fishing for bass; I'm fishing for perch."

NO DANGER

"Did I tell you that my little son swallowed a quater this morning?"
"No. My gracious, is he any danger?"
"No, thank goodness, his father is out of town."

The United States now is the world's greatest consumer of onions, statistics show. Well, one might as well have a strong breath, when he is strong every place else.

Dinah thought her husband Rastus was prone to laziness.

Stranger (at gate): "Where is Rastus?"
Dinah: "Well, Mistuh, after dinner Rastus took his axe and went down to dot wood pile and cut wood a little while and den he laid down by dot log and went to sleep."

Stranger: "I see two objects down there but I can't tell which is Rastus and which is the log."
Dinah: "Stranger, you all watch it, right close for about five minutes. If it moves jest a little it's most likely dot log."

Ninety per cent of our ills, according to a chiroprapist, are caused by our feet. He probably means if our feet are in good shape, we can sidestep most of the germs.

Scientists haven't really prolonged life. They have only saved the infants and offset that by inventing better ways to kill adults.

Judge: "Sambo, where were you when the first bullet whizzed past you?"
Sambo: "I wuz right by the depot."

Judge: "And when the next shot was fired?"
Sambo: "I was passing the first bullet."

A Scotsman wrote to the editor of a paper and warned him that if the publication did not stop running Scotch jokes, he would stop borrowing the paper.

A SLEEPER
Beatrice Strange offers this one for you to read rapidly:

"A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is the name of a carriage."

One thing we like about March is that it is the only month in the year when all big league teams look like potential champions.

DEB TROUBLE

"What did you do then?"

If I "drop in" to pay an informal call on a friend and then discover that she is entertaining, May I stay or should I leave promptly? N. N. Answer: Stay for a while if your hostess is very cordial and sincere in asking you to remain. But in these days, it is always better to telephone before making a call on a friend. Thereby you will learn if she is to be otherwise engaged, in which case she will no doubt arrange for you to come another day.

Readers' Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel: Please let me know the correct procedure of the bridal party as they pass down the aisle, leaving the church—Bride.

Answer: At the end of the ceremony, the maid of honor returns the bouquet to the bride and then turns back the bride veil, if one has been worn. Then, with her bouquet in her right hand, the bride places her left hand through the bridegroom's right arm. The newly-wedded pair proceed down the aisle at the head of the recessional, which reverses the processional in this order: Bride and groom first, maid of honor next, then the bridesmaids (two by two) and the ushers last. If there are flower girls, they may precede the bride and strew flowers in her path. If there is a ring bearer, he should follow directly behind the bride and groom.

Dear Miss Markel: Should black or white waistcoats and ties be worn with dinner jackets?—T. R. Answer: Although the majority of men wear black waistcoats with their dinner jackets, either black or white is correct. A black tie must be worn, however.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

AT HER WORD

A maiden lady of uncertain age, became very indignant when the census taker asked how old she was. "Did you see the girls next door," she asked—"the Hill twins?"

"Certainly," replied the census man. "And did they tell you their age?"

"Yes."

"Well," she snapped. "I'm just as old as they are."

"Oh, very well," said the census man, and he wrote in his book. "Sarah Stokes, as old as the hills."

Welles' Trip Is Unproductive
No New Peace Hopes Uncovered
British And Germans Stand Pat

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' European trip, from all that has leaked out concerning it thus far, neither has been productive of any peace prospects nor has it developed much fresh general information.

There were few expectations when he left here that Undersecretary Welles would return with definite peace proposals in his brief case.

The supposition was, however, that his talks with overseas statesmen would load him up with facts that Americans are not very familiar with—facts of a sort to prove very useful when the world (today's belligerents and neutrals alike) finally gets down to a discussion of international peace on a permanent basis.

Little Information

Well, if Sumner Welles really succeeded in assimilating a particle of "inside dope" of the kind suggested, it's been kept a profound secret thus far.

Duce Mussolini, Fuehrer Hitler, and plenty of others undoubtedly told him lots of things, but they appear to have been things that he must have known in advance.

As to Germany, Herr Hitler already had explained the Reich's peace terms. Besides what the Fuehrer has grabbed of late in his own neighborhood, and the recovery of its lost colonies, he wants to put the British navy out of business, he wants Gibraltar and Suez and Singapore. That'll satisfy him, at least temporarily.

And the British objective is to extinguish Herr Hitler.

Welles' Trip Superfluous

No foreign trip was required to assure as well posted a diplomat as Sumner Welles that Britain would sacrifice her last "Tommy Atkins" before yielding to Adolf's conditions or that Adolf will see his entire country go up in smoke before admitting that HE'S overthrown.

Sumner's chats with the French, the Italians and the miscellaneous neutral neutrals may have elicited a few additional expressions of opinion, but it's widely agreed that the fight essentially is between Adolf and Britain.

Between Adolf and Britain?

Here's a distinction.

The British unquestionably are united behind THEIR government.

Germans Behind Hitler.

Are the Germans united behind the Fuehrer? Stories have been circulated to the purport that they're not—that he has lots of disaffection to deal with at home—that his country may blow up under the Kaiser. If so, the war might frazzle out quite unexpectedly.

But these reports are impossible to verify—or to disprove, either.

Hitler and his lieutenants naturally deny them, and, even if they're true, probably don't believe them.

The British and French PREFER to believe them, and perhaps believe them mistakenly.

Had Sumner Welles been able to scare up some reliable evidence, one way or the other, it would be worth listening to. However, testimony has been weighed, pro and con, for months, by a big corps of competent observers, and they still are uncertain.

It isn't likely that Sumner has been able to out-guess them dependably on the flying tour that he made.

Well Received Everywhere

Undersecretary Welles has been cordially received everywhere. That was to be expected.

Each capital he visited gave him its version of the situation with the utmost appearance of candor. Berlin dwelt upon the Reich's willingness to make peace—with the destruction of the British empire.

London and Paris equally emphasize the Allies' readiness to stop fighting—with the extinction of Hitler and the smashing of Nazidom.

Each side says it's winning. That's the information that Sumner Welles is advertised as returning with.

He hasn't got peace in the sack—or any indications of it.

He's had some interesting interviews. That's about all that there are any appearances of.

It was to have been foreseen, too. There was so much mystery about the trip that many people imagined the Washington administration might have something wonderful "up its sleeve." If so, it hasn't revealed it yet.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

VANISHED WORLD

When I was but a youngster small There was a man whom I recall Who went about at dusk each night With paper stick the lamps to light; Along the street I watched him pass To set aglow the jets of gas.

And thought as on his way he went Such work must leave a man content.

But vanished jets and oil soaked wicks And in their place came carbon sticks Which brought together formed an arc.

Fired by a strange electric spark The man now did his work by day; Threw worn out carbon ends away; Set new and cleaned the globes a bit.

Presto! At night the lamps were lit! Slowly we watched our world decay And to oblivion slip away.

Task after task accepted then Gave way before the works of men. Life moved ahead at swifter pace, Its toil an easier task to face.

Until today our children small Will scarce believe our tales at all.

The Great Game Of Politics

Toward The Lower Levels

WASHINGTON, March 9.

AS THE present state of national affairs is viewed it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that campaigns for the Presidential nomination are now being waged on a level considerably lower than ever before.

THE pretense that the office should seek the man largely has been abandoned. In both parties the aspirants are engaged in what seems a scramble. Dignity has been thrown to the winds and no holds are barred. This reflects not only upon the candidates but upon the people. It marks a deterioration in political standards and public taste. It lends comfort to those who believe that democracies steadily go down hill, ultimately wind up with the mob in charge.

IT is not a pleasant spectacle. For example, there has not been before in our history an instance of a President of the United States openly conniving in the frantic efforts of his job-holding subordinates to re-nominate him for a third term. Whether he finally decides to run in defiance of American political tradition or merely forces the selection of candidates acceptable to him, that is what he is doing now. It is unprecedented in politics and not conducive to respect for the office.

AT the same time, there are at least half a dozen others, Democrats and Republicans, actively in the field with press agents, campaign managers, publicity bureaus, finance committees and headquarters. Effortful autobiographies are circulated, pictures of themselves and their families appear on the screen, and in the press their voices are heard almost nightly in some part of the country. They appear at all sorts of places, do all sorts of things, accept all kinds of invitations. Last week six of them—Mr. Taft and Mr. Garner were notable exceptions—appeared at a National Press Club dinner where they submitted to more or less rough handling and performed before a large, irreverent and kidding crowd in a way to amuse the audience.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MORE ABOUT HATTIE

I believe everyone is delighted that Hattie McDaniel, who gave such a superb performance as Mammy in "Gone With the Wind," is up for the Academy Award. Here is something more concerning that woman.

While she was making that Picture, she called her in for an hour's interview to discuss her biography. But she wound up by spending the day there with most of the big shots watching her. Because she illustrated her story.

She's the thirteenth child of a Baptist minister; her father had a good bass voice, and her mother sang soprano in the church choir. Her mother also taught her to cook and she worked at that job in Denver, during the time she made her way through the East Denver High School, where she studied dramatic art and public speaking. She received a gold medal there for reciting the verses of Paul Dunbar.

She crooned over the airwaves for two years as High Hat Hattie. It was about that time that she undertook to care for the powder room in a Milwaukee Cafe, and the leading lady of the floor show fainted. Hattie volunteered to do some entertaining and she did it so well that the feminine guests of that cafe powdered their noses without Hattie's assistance.

Her success in "Showboat" carried her to Hollywood. And in Katharine Hepburn's "Alice Adams" she did a female "Stepin Fetcher" cook. It was one of the funniest scenes in the picture.

It must have been fun the last time she passed through Denver, for they had to call out the fire and police departments to hold the crowds back. And on the opening night in Los Angeles of "Gone With the Wind" the biggest Stars in Hollywood stood up and applauded when Hattie McDaniel got into her limousine and drove away.

POULTRY INFORMATION AND HELPS AVAILABLE

There will be available through the Agricultural Extension Service this year information regarding the growing and developing of healthy pullets.

This information will be sent to poultry raisers requesting it and will be in the form of a series of letters sent out at timely intervals during the summer months.

Those interested in receiving this information should fill out the form below and return it to the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

GIVES SIMPLE FACTS IN RHODODENDRON CULTURE

One of the secrets for the successful culture of mountain laurel, rhododendron, azaleas and similar plants is the maintenance of an acid soil condition.

The simplest method for developing new plantings is to remove the natural soil from the bed where the plants are to be set. This is particularly advisable in the case of heavy clay or where the soil has been mixed with lime or mortar from building operations. The bed may be filled with leaf mold, half-rotten leaves from oaks or pines, mixed with equal parts sand and loam.

To insure proper growth, each fall mulch the plants with oak leaves or pine needles, sawdust or pulverized peat. Avoid disturbing the mulch once it is in place. Gradual decomposition of the mulch maintains the acid reaction of the soil and materially aids in retaining moisture. A heavy mulch also is an aid in carrying the plants through a winter without injury.

To secure luxuriant growth, proper plant food must be provided. For this group of plants, a different fertilizer than that commonly used is required. Ordinary fertilizers may counteract the acid condition needed. A special formula has given excellent results. It consists of 10 pounds ammonium sulfate, 35 pounds high-grade superphosphate, 17 pounds high-grade sulfate of potash, 28 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds aluminum sulfate.

This mixture may be applied alone at the rate of three and one-half pounds per hundred square feet, or with a wheelbarrow load of suitable compost or pulverized peat moss. Six ounces of the fertilizer are sufficient for 10 square feet of bed.

Because these broad-leaved plants are easily scorched by the winter sun, it is well in making your plans for spring planting to select a protected spot on the east or north side of the house. Avoid placing them in dense shade, for although they will make satisfactory growth, they will not bloom as freely as when given good light conditions.

COTTON FABRICS

In a short time homemakers will be thinking about spring and summer sewing. Retail stores will be showing cotton prints, percales, gingham, and many new unusual cotton fabrics.

The chief virtue of cotton fabrics for most people is that they wash and iron easily, according to Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. It's well to find out before buying whether a piece of material has been preshrunk, and how much more it may be expected to shrink in laundering.

"Preshrunk," "sanitized," "color-fast" and "vat dye" are terms that apply to cotton fabrics now on the market.

These terms along with others are explained in Leaflet 68, "Hints for Clothing Shoppers." You may secure a copy upon request to the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

NEW VARIETIES FOR MARKET GARDENERS

Dependable new early varieties of sweet corn have been used by Lawrence county market gardeners for many years. Golden Early Market was a new "find" about 5 years ago but now it is entirely out-of-date.

Marcross C613 or C13.6 is the 1940 model among early maturing yellow sweet corn varieties. It was first grown when planted about the first of May. Experiments at both the Pennsylvania State College and the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station showed that Marcross is just as early as the earliest strains of Golden Early Market and also is more dependable.

Marcross 39.13 is another new sweet corn which matures five to 10 days after Marcross. It produces larger yields and is of better quality. Carmelcross is a combination of Golden Cross Bantam, the best main crop variety, and Golden Early Market, the best early variety. Spangcross C413 is an extremely early variety that might be worth growing in a trial way this year to determine its usefulness for your conditions. Iona is a new late variety possessing excellent vigor and producing large fodder.

New Plentiful is an early market variety of bean that was tried last year by a number of commercial growers with encouraging results. Plentiful is a cross between the Bountiful flat green bean and Surecrop Wax and retains the outstanding characteristics of both. Under ordinary growing conditions it matures in 50 days.

BUY CHICKS WITH RIGHT PARENTAL BACKGROUND

Sturdy chicks are the foundation stones for success in the poultry business. Chicks having a desirable parental background which enables them to live and perform accordingly will be most likely to convert good management and care in rearing into profits for the poultryman.

The poultryman interested in making his flock return the most impressive profits, in addition to avoiding losses from pullorum, when purchasing baby chicks, looks for such qualities as rapid feathering, high annual egg production, good egg size, shape and color, and the ability to stand up under sustained production.

The danger of losses from pullorum can be reduced to a minimum if chicks are obtained from a pullorum-free source from a flock where the percentage of reaction among the breeders is low.

Many poultrymen have found it advantageous to purchase their chicks each year from a source known to be reliable. This arrangement gives the buyer of baby chicks an opportunity to profit by any improvement the breeder or hatcheryman is always on the alert for an opportunity to improve the quality of chicks sold his customers.

BIG CONTAINERS FOR SMALL CONTENTS

Most homemakers know how to use a measuring cup and spoon in cooking. They would not think of making a cake "by guess" but use exact measures in following a recipe.

When it comes to shopping for the cooking ingredients they need, many women are far less careful to see that they get exact measures, says Miss Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. They often are guided more by the appearance of the package than by the label statement telling how much the package contains.

Most manufacturers of foods, drugs and cosmetics put their products on the market in well-filled, honest containers. But there are always a few other manufacturers competing for the homemaker's trade, who will try tricks to catch the eye. For example, they will put a tube of toothpaste in a big carton, or a pound of candy in a pound sized box with a false bottom.

The new Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act has a special clause in it to protect the public from such deceptive containers. This section says: "A food shall be deemed to be misbranded if its container is so made, formed or filled, as to be misleading."

Miss Markle believes that women can train themselves to read the labels on every packaged food, drug and cosmetic they buy, and see what quantity of material they are really getting.

SENIOR HIGH PLAYERS IN NEW TRIUMPH

role of Barbara Pearson also did an outstanding piece of work, fitting her part perfectly.

Others, who carried difficult roles in a most competent manner, were Natalie Ehrlich, as Miss Shea, secretary to Mr. Bradley, the principal; Don Magill as Mr. Nelson, assistant principal; John Drake, as Mr. Bradley, the principal; Jeanette Kulkin, as Miss Wheeler, a fussy teacher; and James Toler, who impersonated Mr. Vecchitto, a parent of Italian extraction.

Cast Does Well

As a matter of fact, all those in the cast acquitted themselves most creditably, and every role was filled by one who fitted into the parts they were playing very ably.

The play hinged around efforts of Henry Aldrich to win the favor of Barbara Pearson and to take her to the big dance of the year, but Henry in the meantime, has involved himself in difficulties with the principal, teachers, and others, which almost results in his suspension and being jailed, but he eventually straightens them all out and everything ends happily.

Between times, there is a procession of young folks and adults through the office of Principal Bradley, which is the scene of action throughout the play.

During the play, Miss Clara M. Hartsuff, dramatics director at the Senior High School, under whose direction the play was given, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses by William Reed, in behalf of the cast, as token of their appreciation for her efforts in the directional work.

Music during the evening was furnished by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Joe F. Replogle.

Cast of Play

The cast was as follows: Miss Shea, Secretary of Mr. Bradley; Natalie Ehrlich, Mr. Nelson, Assistant Principal; Don Magill, Mr. Patterson, A Teacher; Miss Pike, A Teacher; Mildred Connerly, Bill; Elhu Elefant, Miss Eggleston, A Teacher; Jane Walls, Miss Johnson, A Teacher; Peggy Foster, Mr. Vecchitto, A Parent; James Toler, Henry Aldrich, A Student; Bill Reed, Barbara Pearson, A Student; Audrey Bridenbaugh, Gertie, A Student; Mary Elizabeth Allen, Mr. Bradley, The Principal; John Drake, Miss Wheeler, A Teacher; Jeanette Kulkin, George Bigelow, A Teacher; Dave Ferguson, Mrs. Aldrich, Henry's Mother; Nancy Brenner, Mr. Ferguson, From Police Headquarters; Russell Stocker, Mary, A Student; Mary Louise Gibson, Student; Dorothy Kastner, Charles Cross

SWAN CHASES EAGLES

(International News Service)

NYACK, N. Y.—Strangest winter visitor at Nyack was a large white swan which calmly took possession of an unfrozen stretch of the Hudson River and recently scared off two bald eagles who attempted to violate its private fishing and swimming preserve. Nyack residents, puzzled as to where the bird came from, called Central Park in nearby New York to see if any of the park's swans were missing. None were and Nyack is still puzzled.

CLEAR FOREMAN IN LEHEW DEATH

since its construction was begun, because it was felt that it would be dangerous to the workers to try and remove, and that safety was the keynote in regard to the construction work on the sewer.

Wilbert Hambrick, who operates the gasoline-powered grader, which does the backfilling in the sewer trench, and also pulls the cribbing, testified that the last two pieces of cribbing which remained in the section being removed, and that Mr. Miller and Mr. Tindall, the gang foreman, had the men to get out of the sewer and abandon those two pieces. He said that Frank Heckathorne had done so, but that Lelew and Charles Gregg, Lelew's brother-in-law, had remained in the trench.

Tells Of Activity

Frank Heckathorne, who was working with Lelew and Gregg, told of the work that was being done that day. They had pulled a section of the cribbing, all but two pieces, which had fallen down into the trench and would not come out. He stated that Foreman Miller had told them to get out of the trench and that he had done so, coming back through the cribbing, as he and others working on this particular job had been instructed many times to do, but that Lelew and Gregg, had walked back the sewer trench in the other direction, where it was partly filled up.

After Miller and gang foreman Tindall had gone away, walking towards the shovel, which digs the sewer trench, Lelew and Gregg came back and, according to Heckathorne, Lelew said to throw down the cable, and "We will pull them out." He said the boys on top brought the cable back, when the huge piece of frozen earth started to break away from the top of the east bank of the sewer. He said those who saw it start to fall, shouted a warning, and that Lelew and Gregg tried to get out of the way. Struck a glancing blow by the dirt, Lelew, however, slipped in the trench and turned partly around, the frozen block of dirt falling on him and crushing him.

Other witnesses examined, all of whom substantiated the testimony that many warnings had been issued to use caution, and in the case of those who were near where the accident occurred, that the men were ordered to come out of the sewer trench, included: George Stevens, Norman Wallace, Mike Solomon, Ernest Malcom, Foreman John Tindall, Arthur Weaver, Rocco Plano, Con Young, and Ross Burdette, the latter of whom operates the sewer digger.

Everett C. Hulbert, civil engineer, testified to the nature of the soil, which he stated was mostly of hard clay, but that quicksand had been encountered in the trench.

The jury which heard the testimony was composed of Robert B. Stratton, Charles V. Kelly, Charles E. Allen, Peter Rupp, John C. Williams, and Paul Lewis.

DIRECT CONTACT OF PEACE ENVOYS REPORTED NEAR

amid international maneuvering which involved every major capital in Europe, costly slaughter continued on Finland's fronts.

A major development of the day was a call on Elias Erkkio, Finnish minister in Stockholm, by Sir Edmund Monson, the British minister.

Some reports said that peace talks would open soon in Tallin, Estonia; or Riga, Latvia; and rumors suggested an armistice over this week-end.

Rejection Is Likely

Yet so torn was the Soviet attitude in spite of Moscow's fears of Anglo-French intervention—and so fearful were the Finns that an armistice now would amount only to another Munich—that rejection of Moscow's proposals loomed as a strong possibility.

Russia, it was understood in Stockholm, insists that the terms of peace must be settled before an armistice may be declared and fighting stopped.

Finland government leaders were reported feeling that their republic would be a second Czechoslovakia: that if the Manchester line of defenses were surrendered, within a few months, when favorable conditions will be more favorable, Russia will seize Finland by force.

U. S. Not Asked To Act

Washington, March 9.—Secretary of State Hull revealed today that he had received a comprehensive report from U. S. Ambassador Laurance A. Steinhardt in Moscow regarding his two hour talk last night with Soviet Premier V. V. Molotov, but added the Soviet government had not asked the United States to mediate between it and Finland.

Steinhardt, the secretary said, acted on instructions of the state department when he visited the premier at the Kremlin. His mission, however, was only to seek the latest and most authoritative information about current peace negotiations and not to offer or receive any proposals for mediation.

Audience With Pope

Rome, March 9.—The all-embracing nature of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop's forthcoming visit to Rome was emphasized today with disclosure that he has requested an audience with Pope Pius.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Reuter's agency said that the audience had been granted for 9 a. m. Monday.

Spoken at the Holy See interpreted this request as an indication of German willingness to attempt a "better understanding of religious problems."

SUPERSTITIONS

Superstitions that have grown up in our various communities about birth are very interesting to me. They have their roots away back in the past having been handed down from mother to daughter for generations. Sometimes they are so old we can't trace the origin of them. They are a living survival of the darkest past.

There is one superstition sometimes met with—I think it is an old Irish one—to the effect that if a baby is born with a birthmark, the mark will disappear if it is rubbed with a bit of placenta.

The truth is that babies are often born with skin blemishes that disappear in a few days of their own accord. I suppose this accounts for this superstition surviving as it has. Rubbed with a bit of the placenta, the mark disappears. It would have disappeared anyway, but the belief is apparently substantiated.

Another superstitious belief is that a pregnant mother can make sure of having a baby girl if she will just eat plenty of peanuts. It's easy to understand why this survives. The baby has a fifty-fifty chance of being a girl anyway. So when the mother follows this recipe and eats peanuts, and a girl is born, then the village wisecracks nod their heads and take the credit. But if it is a boy that is born—as it will be in fifty cases out of a hundred, peanuts or no peanuts, the village oracles just sit back and say: "She didn't eat enough peanuts, that's all."

Most such superstitions are harmless and a doctor who comes out openly and fights them will often do more harm than good. For instance in some communities, if a pregnant mother suffers a lot from indigestion, the people believe it means that the baby will be born with a lot of hair. Another superstition advises the mother to go downstairs backward the first time after the delivery of her child. Just why she should go downstairs backwards, I can't say. That is one of the superstitions I have never been able to account for. It is a harmless belief, I guess—except that she may fall and break her neck.

I have found women who claimed that popcorn is a surefire remedy for morning sickness in pregnancy. A plain, old fashioned superstition, tied up with the evil eye, witchcraft and all that sort of thing is the old story that a baby will become a thief if its finger or toenails are cut during his first year. Fortunately such ridiculous superstitions are growing more rare all the time.

One superstition I combat because it is harmful to one, is a belief that if a child develops convulsions, they can be promptly relieved by putting salt in the palm of his hand. You see how dangerous this might be. A baby has convulsions, so instead of calling a doctor to see what is wrong, the superstitious parents put salt in the child's hand.

My advice to all parents is if your child goes into convulsions, it is likely a sign that something is wrong with his system. So get your doctor as quickly as you can. Don't waste time seasoning the poor baby.

Map Shows Highest Point In County

Location Is Mile South Of
Princeton — Elevation
Recorded As 1,440
Feet

The highest point in Lawrence county is not Weller's Hill, on the Butler-New Castle highway, in New Bedford or in North Beaver township but in Slippery Rock township about a mile south of Princeton.

This is the contention of David F. Kyle, of North Beaver township, one of the oldest residents in the county.

Mr. Kyle spread out several topographical maps, yesterday, to prove his point. The maps, issued by the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., show that Weller's Hill, usually conceded to be the highest point, is 1,274 feet high.

Asked where the 1,440 feet altitude mark is, Mr. Kyle replied: "I don't know the name of the hill or the farm upon which this point exists. All I know is that it is 1,440 feet, according to the topographical maps."

Police Chief Gets
Notice Mazzone
Will Be Deported

Lawrence County Man In Far-view To Be Sent Back To Europe

Frank Mazzone, Crescendale, convicted in Lawrence county court of second degree murder in connection with the shooting to death of Mike Milichovich at that place December 3, 1938, is to be deported according to word received today by Police Chief Marion J. Young. The information was sent out by the FBI of the Department of Justice.

Mazzone was sentenced to seven to 14 years in the western Penitentiary and later transferred to Far-view, an institution for the insane. He was placed in custody of immigration authorities pending deportation, the report received here stated.

Mazzone allegedly shot Milichovich after the latter reportedly had made an improper remark to a woman at a party. They met on the road. Mazzone testified he shot to frighten Milichovich and when the latter put a hand into his pocket, Mazzone intended to shoot him and fired again.

Mazzone gave himself up at the sheriff's office.

St. Vitus Nose Out Mahoning, Baptists Top Presbyterianians, Greeks Win Game

"HUCK" DAVIES
SCORES 20 POINTS

Three games were played in the New Castle church basketball league last night at the "Y" floor. "Huck" Davies of the First Christian team carried off high scoring honors for the evening with 20 points, as his team fell to the Greek Orthodox team 37 to 25 in a torrid battle. Nick Lucas was best for the Greeks.

The First Baptist team led by Francis Adams won from the First Presbyterian 48 to 38. The St. Vitus team just barely nosed out the Mahoning five 27 to 26. Wilson was high scorer in the game.

Titan Guard

JOE SPAK

NEW WILMINGTON, March 9.—One of the Westminster Titans' most dependable ball-handlers and floor-guard is Joe Spak, Westminster sophomore from Pittsburgh. A regular last season, Spak has been kept from full-time play this year because of a scoring slump. Spak's best-scoring games for the year were against Millersville with 18 points and against Tech at Pittsburgh with 13.

Fannins Defeat Princeton Team

The Fannin basketball team, in a warm-up for the coming city-county basketball tourney, went to Princeton last night and won a floor game, 45 to 35. Both teams will fight for class B honors in the tourney. At the half the score was 28 to 20 in favor of the "Fannins." "Toy" Lait-ten and Farrell were the leading scorers in the game.

The Fannins are in Pittsburgh today for the A. M. A. junior floor tourney at the Pittsburgh Boys' club "Y" floor.

Bethany Opponent At New Wilmington, Final Game For Two Players

DEFEATED BETHANY EARLIER IN YEAR

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. March 9.—The Westminster College Titan basketball team will end its 1939-40 season tonight at the Westminster gym by opposing the Bethany College Bison. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

For two of the Titans it will be the final game of their college careers at the Westminster floor—Captain Mel Miller and Joe Hetra, the former a New Brighton boy and Hetra hailing from Farrell. Incidentally today is Hetra's 22nd birthday. The boys will try hard to win the last one for Mel and Joe.

Westminster has won 11 and lost 7 so far this year. Coach Grover Washbaugh will probably start the following team tonight—Fox and Patton at the forwards, Wasik at center and Hetra and Spak at the guards, or it may be Ridl instead of Spak.

Earlier in the year the Titans went to Bethany and won 70 to 54.

TEXAN EARNS RIGHT TO MEET LOU AMBERS FOR LIGHT-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 9.—Mean of eye, weather-beaten, and typically Texan in his appearance and manner, Jenkins, of Sweetwater, Tex., is the pugilistic toast today of the big town, far from the cow trails he used to ride along the Rio Grande as a member of the Eighth Cavalry.

A sprig of straw in the corner of his mouth and a slice of cut plug in his cheek would be more in character for him, but actually, he is the leading contender for the world's lightweight championship by virtue of his stunning victory over Tippy Larkin last night.

Winner in 2 minutes and 41 seconds of the first round with as clean a knockout as Madison Square Garden customers have ever seen, Jenkins inspired Promoter Mike Jacobs to strive for a match early in May between Jenkins and Champion Lou Ambers.

Sports World Ramblings

One sport note after another and what happened to Harry Thomas the confessor?—Kenny Spear, forward, and James McLaughrey, guard, reserves on New Wilmington High's basketball squad, missed the Point Marion semi-final round clash. They were stricken by an attack of the mumps last Wednesday.

Miss Mildred Dewberry's 754 score wasn't a good enough qualifying mark in the current women's National Rubber Band Duckpin Tourney. The local young lady's mark lasted but a few days.

Tanned to the shade of an orange, Frank Summers and Rick Monsey are back home from Florida where they played golf, more golf and more golf. Picking up the clubs for the first time since the New Castle Field Club season ended, Dykes Monsey, the pro, turned in a par 71 score on the tricky Snell Island layout. Summers reported, Summers posted a sparkling 81. Dykes and his wife have not returned home as yet.

Mrs. Thomas E. Nolan, 1011 Maryland avenue, probably has done more to publicize New Castle than any other local female athlete. A nationally known golfer, Mrs. Nolan's name is sure to be found in practically all leading winter tourneys. Mrs. Nolan drifts from one tourney to another, matching link with the cream of female niblick swingers. Her latest triumph is one of her most cherished accomplishments, no doubt. All she did was defeat Betty Jameson, the national champion, 4 and 3, in the

Gersons-Boosters Have Games Carded For Arena Sunday

Gersons Will Play Truscon Steel Of Youngstown, Boosters Meet Weirton

Sunday will find the Arena floor active with two of the leading floor teams in New Castle—Gersons and Boosters playing fast opponents. The Boosters and Weirton, West Virginia tangle at 2:15 o'clock and the Gersons and Truscon Steel of Youngstown in the main game at 3:15 o'clock.

The Gersons have established a very enviable record this year, winning 25 and losing but six. The local Jewelers hope to snap the 16 straight winning streak of the Ohio team. The locals will be shooting for the 18th win of the year.

The Truscon Steel is one of the best teams in the Youngstown district, losing out in the Industrial League only to the strong Youngstown Sheet and Tube team. The Gersons will have their hands full with this team.

This will be the last game for the Jewelers until next Tuesday night when they face the Ellwood City Shelby All-Stars in the third annual City-County floor tourney at Washington High floor.

Three Games At Polish Falcon Hall On Sunday

Falcons Meet Salem, Cozy Giants Play K. Pulaskis, Factor Girls Play Warren

The Polish Falcon hall will be packed to capacity on Sunday afternoon for the big triple-header basketball attractions starting at 1:15 o'clock. There will be three interesting games on the program.

The day will be known as "Booster Day" for the Falcons. Never before have three games been carded on one day. The event is expected to draw a big crowd owing to the high caliber of teams involved.

Cozy Giants will meet the K. Pulaskis in a city-county tourney warm-up game at 1:15 to get the day's ball rolling. The Giants hold a victory over the K. P. team earlier in the year at the K. P. hall. The Oaklanders are out to even up the score tomorrow. Coach Johnny Carik of the undefeated Giants will have a strong line-up available.

Falcons vs. Salem
In the second game on the card the Factor Variety girls will meet the championship Reipas girls team from Warren, O. The Factors are on a winning streak and hope to be able to defeat the Ohio lasses. This promises to be a very interesting as well as exciting game.

The main event will find the Polish Falcons and National Sanitary of Salem, O. tangling. The Sanitary team, one of the best semi-pro teams in eastern Ohio, is made up of former high and college stars. Two of the star performers are Sam Arakulich of Ohio State fame and Bob Jefferies, former Mt. Union college star. Also on the team is Al Carlos, for two years high scorer on the New River State college team.

To date the Salem team has won 29 and lost but two games. Coach Marion Sniezek and Harry Koszela will have the strongest possible Falcon line-up on the hardwood to try and top this fast Ohio quintet.

Camilli Adamant Continues Siege As Dodger Holdout

(International News Service)
LAYTONVILLE, Cal., March 9.—Unless the Brooklyn Dodgers come to Dolph Camilli like a mountain coming to Mahomet, the veteran first sacker will maintain his bucolic existence on his 360-acre California cattle ranch this season.

Camilli made that definite point Friday. It was the only one he made.

The Dodger sparkplug declined to reveal the sum he was asking, or comment on the hot statements of Dodgers' president Larry MacPhail, who reported that Camilli had threatened to quit baseball for good and intimated that the sum was all right with him. Is Spiritless

Irregular Range Throughout Trading During Morning Hours

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 9.—The stock market was a spiritless affair today, with leaders moving over a narrow and irregular range throughout the two hours of trading.

The low-price packard was the day's most active stock, as it ran up a half-point to a new 1940 peak just under 4. Buying reflected the large U. S. Navy order for engines.

Other motors were inclined to slightly lower levels, with Chrysler slipping about a half-point. Steels, including Bethlehem, Chemicals, Aviations, rail equipments and copers also were somewhat easier at the finish.

Rubbers, some of the rails and utilities and mail orders were steady to a shade higher.

Commodities likewise displayed a mixed trend.

Score Flee From Pittsburgh Fire

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, March 9.—Two children were rescued and nearly a score of other persons, mostly art and business college students, were forced to flee from their burning residence on the North Side early Friday, clad only in night attire.

The children, Rosemary Ferraro, six, and Anthony Ferraro, seven, were carried to safety by policemen. They had been asleep on the second floor when the fire was discovered.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, apparently started in the clothes closet of a fourth floor room occupied by three boys.

PIONEER SPIRIT MARCHING ON IN NEW CASTLE

It may be a lot of satisfaction to some of the oldest residents to reminisce over the "good old days" back on the farm, but their memory isn't so good about some things. For example the matter of heat in the winter.

In those days there was a pot-bellied heating stove in the dining room and a coal stove in the kitchen and in the parlor (not the living room if you please) there was usually a small grate. You sizzled on one side and froze on the other when you attempted to get warm at them and the bedrooms were usually about fifteen degrees below the temperature of the refrigerator you now use.

The introduction of modern heating methods changed all that but your old timer seems to forget. Today a turn of a knob in the bed room starts a flow of heat that dissipates the sub-zero temperatures of outdoors and certainly makes a bed room or living room something different than what it was back in the '80s.

One of the reasons for the change is the National Radiator Company.

A New Castle industry situated at the east end of the city, near Cascade Park. Here are manufactured cast iron boilers that operate by steam, hot water, gas, oil, or vapor. Cooling sections for the petroleum industry are also manufactured by them and one other item, hardly akin to heating units is the Krypt-Aloy burial vault which has attracted so much attention in the United States.

The history of the National Radiator Company goes back to 1916. At that time the Penn Automobile Company had vacated its plant at East New Castle and one of New Castle's all time great men, the late David Jameson with some other citizens determined to do something about it.

The Novelty Iron Company, of Canton, O., impressed with the possibilities here took over the plant and the Federal Radiator Company was formed. Fred Mechling was the president of the company and G. C. Blackmore, the general manager.

In 1918 the National Radiator Company of Johnstown absorbed the plant into its organization, made some improvements and in 1926 added a huge new building to the ones existing.

At that time John H. Waters was the president of the company and he was a visitor to this plant on many occasions. In 1927 the National Radiator Company was consolidated with some other plants and the whole known as the National Radiator Corporation. Changes in the corporate structure some time ago returned the name to the National Radiator Company.

The radiator plant, especially the foundry is not a place to visit in your white linen suit. Out of the cupola gushes molten metal from the molding boxes comes the stifling heat and the passage ways that mark the pattern shape. Brawny men, grimy and besweated are turning the molten metal into boiler sections that will some day warm the residents of skyscrapers and of bungalows.

Over the steam and grime of the place is the whirl of wheels, the hum of motors all of it blending into an orderly confusion that marks the birth of National boilers.

About 480 men are employed at the radiator works under the direction of E. L. Brunner, the plant manager. The president of the company is R. S. Waters, of Johnstown, Pa.

The history of the radiator company has been one of courage in the face sometimes of heavy odds. Back of the company was the indomitable will of the late John Waters and now his son, R. S. Waters, who believed in their product and in the city where it was made.

The National Radiator Company justly rates a position among the classification of modern pioneers and it is hoped that on March 30 when the testimonial dinner is given in the Cathedral Mr. Waters will head his official staff at the dinner. Among that group it is hoped Ralph S. Bolinger will be present for Mr. Bolinger was a figure in New Castle for many years.

In sport, in motor club affairs, in civic affairs generally he made himself felt and while he is an executive of the Johnstown office now, New Castle still claims him.

A flock of mice lost their home in the back room of the prothonotary's office when the new floor was laid. When workmen began tearing out cases to arrange for the new floor some large mice nests were found and evidence of the existence of the rodents. The new floor is concrete and it seems unlikely the office will be bothered any more.

Former Judge Is Now In Prison At Lewisburg, Penna.

Martin T. Manton Must Serve Two-Year Term, Goes Through Routine Of All Convicts

(International News Service) LEWISBURG, Pa., March 9.—Federal prison gates swung open Friday to admit Martin T. Manton, a year ago the nation's tenth ranking jurist, as he arrived to begin serving a two-year sentence for "selling justice."

Manton, nearing 60 and former Presiding Judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, was closely guarded as he was whisked through the gates in an automobile bearing New York license plates.

Extraordinary efforts were made to protect the aged former jurist from the stares of the curious. Manton crouched in the rear seat as the car entered the prison grounds. He was immediately taken to Col. Guy C. Rexroad, acting warden, and went through the routine all convicts must undergo—fingerprinting, photographing, bathing, and outfitting with a coarse prison uniform.

Convicted of accepting favors from litigants, Ex-Judge Manton will spend his first 30 days in quarantine. Then he most likely will be assigned as a clerk in the penitentiary office.

With tears in his eyes, Manton gave himself up in New York yesterday, a day before he was scheduled to leave for the prison. A $10,000 fine imposed on Manton was paid by his son, David.

Miss Henry To Mark Birthday March 14

March 14 has been set aside at the Margaret L. Henry Home for Children as a red letter day. It is the birthday of Miss Henry, who for the past 35 years has been in charge of the home.

In the early days of the home the sledding was tough. Maintenance for the home depended upon the charity of citizens who contributed just when the mood urged them. Some years ago the home was put on a sound financial basis and named after Miss Henry.

Today the home has a board of directors composed of business and professional men of the city who see to it that the youngsters get a better break than the youngsters did when the home first started.
